

'This very good novel . . . scared and moved me'

THE STANDARD

'The beautiful and powerful get what they want; the self-disciplined end up slighted and lonely . . . This clever, disenchanted novel . . . has a marvellously sharp Muriel Sparkish eye for lonely London scenes'

THE OBSERVER

'The start of this book is reminiscent of Barbara Pym . . . two cultivated, upper-middle class, unattached women, Frances (or Fanny) and Olivia, working in the reference library of a medical research institute . . . a novel by turns moving, sharp and droll'

THE SPECTATOR

'Taken up with careless brio by Doctor Nick Fraser and his wife Alix, "Little Orphan Fanny" meets nonchalance, lively selfishness, and James . . . Look at Me chills to the bone . . . a novel sufficiently distinguished to make you blink twice at "Brookner" on the jacket. Blinked at once, it might be "Bronte"'

THE TIMES

'Frances does fall in love, timidly and with little hope and confidence . . . Ms Brookner has brought off something very difficult. Her book rings true . . . A novelist who ought to have a devoted and attentive readership'

THE SCOTSMAN

Also by Anita Brookner in Triad/Panther Books

A START IN LIFE
PROVIDENCE

ANITA BROOKNER WON THE 1984 BOOKER PRIZE FOR HER NOVEL HOTEL DU LAC

Front cover shows a detail from the painting Portrait de Madame Rita Van Leer, 1928 by André Derain.
Ancienne Collection—Paul Guillaume.
Reproduced by kind permission of the owners, Mr and Mrs J Beaudan.
© A.D.A.G.P. PARIS, 1984

ISBN 0-586-06071-5

FICTION

UNITED KINGDOM £1.95
NEW ZEALAND $6.95

9 780586 060711