

'An absorbing epic ... as splendid a ripping yarn as any of the best classics ... The violence is truly awe-inspiring, the battles magnificent'

DAILY TELEGRAPH

'A gripping, deeply accomplished work'

EVENING STANDARD

'I loved it ... Bragg's stately, seething, passionate epic is several cuts above modern attempts at historical fiction'

LITERARY REVIEW

'A beguiling entry into a society strange, neglected, important, tragic in many of its triumphs'

SPECTATOR

'A rollicking historical epic'

THE AGE, AUSTRALIA

Melvyn Bragg's fifteen novels include For Want of a Nail, The Hired Man and The Maid of Buttermere. He has also written several works of non-fiction including Rich, a biography of Richard Burton. He is Controller of Arts at LWT, and President of the National Campaign for the Arts.
